HASTE NOW WON'T MAKE UP FOR LACK OF ZEAL EARLIER.

Admitting as the War Department does that its list of 173,000 so-called "slackers" contains the names of many who should not justly bear that opprobious designation, it will be decidedly unfair to make publication of them, as threatened, until every means has been exhausted to ascertain why certain names should not be stricken from this list.

Hundreds of men throughout the country voluntarily enlisted in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps after having registered under the draft regulations and neglected or failed to notify the draft board of their district of that fact. The draft records will, of course, show them as delinquents and for that reason the War Department should exhibit some sense of fairness in providing every possible opportunity for these volunteers to clear their records. The least the department could do under the circumstances would be to send notice to each man recorded as a delinquent and thus afford him facilities for correcting the record before he is publicly branded as a draft dodger.

With the army of clerks to be retained in the department until after election it would impose no greater hardship upon them than performing some useful labor to mail to the last known address of each alleged "slacker" a transcript of his record. Receipt of such notice will call attention to the matter and place upon the recipient the responsibility for having his name removed from or retained on the slacker list.

The haste the War Department is now exhibiting in its efforts to brand as slackers many young men whom it admits does not belong in that classification can in no wise compensate for the lack of zeal in proceeding against those who deliberately dodged their duty when others patriotically accepted it, but failed to comply with all the red tape regulations in notifying the authorities of their action.

GETTING BACK TO THE OLD ORDER.

The belief is becoming more and more generally recognized that lower prices for the necessities of living will not come for some time. Quite as convincing is the realization that both the time when such a change will be made and the extent to which there will be a reduction are dependent in a very large measure upon a return to the old order of economy and thrift in the lives of the people.

Everywhere there has been a letting down, or change of sentiment, that has not been conducive to the growth and development of the virtues that characterized us as a people in the days when money was less plentiful and its expenditure less prodigal. There has been such increasing fondness for extravagance and display, such a love for ease and indifference to the finer things of life, that we have suffered a very serious impairment of our power to discriminate between the essential and the harmful. Yielding to the excesses of the rapid age in which we are living we are losing our desire to cultivate the fine feelings of the heart, and the preservation of the homing instinct and are consuming ourselves and our substance in chasing phantoms. We must bravely break the new and seductive habits that are enthralling us if we hope for an era of lower prices and to perpetuate the American home as the bulwark and the glory of our national life.

"The American people," says the Pittsburg Gazette Times, "were strongest in every sense when their incomes were smaller than they are today because then they disbursed with intelligent consideration for a balance, which was deemed essential to the well-being of every properly managed household. Though relatively few achieved ownership of their homes, such possession was the goal of ambition of practically all. It is probable that the prevalent extravagance is attributable less to a breakdown of moral fibre than to failure to measure values with old-time discrimination. Incomes have been swollen and expenses also have risen. Only the painstaking few have maintained their sense of proportion and continued to lay away as of yore a part of their monthly receipts. Readjustment in the home is indispensable.

"The best hope of lower prices and of happy homes rests on confidence that the people will get back to the old order of domestic economy."

The ... Soviet Russia ... agree with ... France, England ... United States in turn, overlook what happened to the superman of Germany who tried the same scheme.

Does Candidate Cox's protestations about not being ruled by a ring, ring true?

There is no waning of Edison's genius. He has been able to find a $6 pair of shoes and make them last almost a year.

Everything that happens to retard the progress of the march of Coxey's Army will naturally be blamed upon evil minded and designing Republicans.

The vitally important question as to who actually won the war, and which the country has waited breathlessly to have definitely settled, has been answered by the calm, but modest, admission of Bruce Foster Sterling that "Me and Wilson" turned the trick.

Breaking the Solid South on woman suffrage will be a harder blow than "breaking the heart of the world."

Perhaps that Jacksontown auto cop, who took Governor Cox's number, was not convinced by the governor's arguments that he was a real Jacksonian. Some Democrats entertain the same doubts.

Mother will have a chance for her vacation when the call to school will make the children vacate home within a few weeks.

The Bolsheviki saw rather more war before Warsaw yesterday than they expected.

The man who digs in on his job will not find it necessary to dig as a job.

Pass this all along the line etc.

Thursday P. M.

DEAR PETE:

Just blew into Pittsburg to close that N and P purchase. While I was waiting for the contract to be signed who ambles in to the G. M's office but President Holt! Asked me if I had a cigarette. Slipped him my "Camel Garage." Remember, he hit the "straight" boys when I met him last year?

Pete, you ought to hear Mr. Holt talk Camels! Gee, I thought I was some Camel spieler. But he went right to the mat with the subject. Say, if I could have shorthanded that line of super-stuff I'd have the job writing Camel ads by noon today!

"Reynolds ought to get a dollar for every Camel cigarette", Mr. Holt declared. "Why, my boy, Camels are simply wonderful," he added. "Don't ever let anybody talk about mild cigarettes compared with Camels! I know! (Get that, Pete). I've proved it to a hundred smokers that Camels are the mellowest and most refreshing cigarette in the world," etc., etc.

Pete, Camels won Mr. Holt like they won me—on their quality! After hearing him cut loose, I felt like saying: "You tell it, old parcel post, I can't express it!

Pete, I'm hatching an idea about Camels. I'll spill it your direction next time I write! It's what York State folks call a "pip-ing!" And it's ripe!

Yours till the next fire-up.

Shorty.

HISTORY REPEATS

AFTER the battle of Waterloo the Rothschilds bought French Rentes, the bonds of an enemy country, and laid the foundation of a fortune. After the American Civil War, when our currency was depreciated to 33% of its normal value, French and German investors bought American municipal and industrial bonds and made 300% of profit. After the Franco-Prussian War of 1871, when France floated her national loan to pay her indemnity, Germans were among the principal subscribers, and they, too, realized tremendous profits.

History repeats and a similar opportunity is now offered to the American investor whereby as much as 1000% profit may be made by investing in depreciated foreign currencies and bonds at present prices.

Prominent American financial interests have taken advantage of this opportunity. Dr. Walter Rathenau, president of the German General Electric Company, recently announced that American banking interests had purchased a 25,000,000 Mark block of stock in that company. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York recently purchased 200,000,000 Kronen of the capital stock of the Credit Anstalt of Vienna. And prominent American financial interests have secured the docking privileges in the port of Hamburg for a period of ten years.

History has proven such foreign investment to be secure and profitable. American bankers and financiers have registered their confidence by investment. 200% profit has been made during the past six months and nearly 1000% profit is still possible; consequently we recommend the municipal issues of Germany and Austria as a most attractive form of semi-speculative investment.

We carry the above bonds for immediate delivery, and will supply translations and tax laws upon request.

To return to Mother Jenks

Before Don Juan could even utter a matutinal greeting Mother Jenks laid finger to lip and silenced him "Go back to Leher's and return in an hour," she whispered "I 'ave my reasons for wantin' that bloomin' cablegram delivered later."

Don Juan hadn't the least idea what Mother Jenks reasons might be, but he presumed she was up to some chicanery, and so he winked his bloodshot eye very knowingly and nodded his acquiescence in the program.

When he had gone Mother Jenks went behind the bar and fortified herself with her morning's morning—which rite having been performed her sleep-benumbed brain livened up immediately

"Gord's truth!" the lady murmured "An' me about to turn him adrift for the lawst fortnight Well for 'im 'e allers hadmired the picture o' my sainted 'Enery as was the spittin image of his own fawther. 'Evings! 'Ell's bells' But that was a bit of a tight squeak' Just as I'm fully convinced 'e's beat it an' I'm left 'oldin the sack all along o' my kindness of 'eart 'e gets the cablegram 'e's been lookin for this two months past, an 'e allers claimed as 'ow any time 'e got a cablegram it'd be an answer to 'is letter, with money to foller! My word, [illegible] a touch an' go!"

Still congratulating herself upon her good fortune in intercepting Don Juan Cafetero, Mother Jenks proceeded upstairs to her chamber, clothed herself, and adjourned to the kitchen After giving orders for an extra special breakfast for two, Mother Jenks returned to her cantina and formally opened the same for the business of that day and night.

To her came presently, via the tiled hallway, the object of her solicitude, a young man on the sunny side of thirty. He was thin for one of his height and breadth of chest; in color his countenance resembled that of a sick Chinaman. His hair was thick and wavy, but lusterless, his dark blue eyes carried a hint of jaundice, and a generous mouth, beneath an equally generous upper lip, gave ample ground for the suspicion that while Mr William Geary's speech denoted him an American citizen, at least one of his maternal ancestors had been wooed and won by an Irishman An old Panama hat sad relic of a prosperous past a pair of soiled buck skin pumps, a suit of unbleached linen equally befouled and last but not least, the remnants of a smile that much hard luck could never quite obliterate completed his attire and to one a stranger in the tropics would appear to constitute a complete inventory of Mr Geary's possessions

"Dulce corazon mio I extend a greeting" he called at the entrance "I trust you rested well last night Mother Jenks, and that no evil dreams were born of your midnight repast of frijoles refritos, marmalade and arf an' arf!"

"Chop yer spoofin Willie" Mother Jenks simpered "My hevel So I'm yer sweetheart eh? Yer wheedlin blighter makin love to a girl as is old enough to be yer mother!"

"A woman Mr Geary retorted sagely and not a whit abashed, "is at the apex of her feminine charms at thirty seven

He knew his landlady to be not a day under fifty but such is the ease with which the Irish scatter their blarney that neither Billy Geary nor Mother Jenks regarded this pretty speech in the light of an observation immaterial inconsequential and not germane to the matter at issue Nevertheless there was a deeper reason for his blarney This morning watching the telltale tinge of pleasure underlying the alcohol-begotten hue of the good creature's face he felt almost ashamed of his own heartlessness—almost but not quite

For two months he had existed entirely because of the leniency of Mother Jenks in the matter of credit He could not pay her cash devoutly as he hoped to do some day, and he considered it of the most vital importance that in the interim he should somehow survive Therefore in lieu of cash he paid her compliments, which she snapped up greedily

An inventive genius was Billy He never employed the same defensive tactics two days in succession and when personal flattery threatened to fail him a large crayon reproduction of the late Henry Jenks which hung over the back bar was a never failing source of inspiration

This was the "sainted 'Enery" previously referred to by Mother Jenks He had been a servant in Her Britannic Majesty's Royal Horse artillery and upon retiring to the reserve had harkened to a proposition to emigrate to Sobrante and accept a commission as colonel of artillery with the government forces then in the throes of a revolutionary attack The rebels had triumphed, and as a result 'Enery had been sainted via the customary expeditious route, whereupon his wife had had recourse to her early profession of barmaid, and El Buen Amigo had resulted

However, let us return to our loops as Mr Geary would have expressed it Seemingly the effect of Billy's compliment was instantly evident for Mother Jenks set out two

BIG CROP OF HAY FEVER JOKES

But Kentucky Man Says People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony Are Kidding Themselves.

Wouldn't Be Any Hay Fever If Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning.

"The annual crop of Hay Fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine, and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer

"Many of my Hay Fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear, and in cases where it does show up, is very mild and does not annoy

It's the same way with Rose Fever

"The Better Class of Pharmacists who dispense Mentholized Arcine say that it will greatly modify any attack, even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin."

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint, for up to the present time there has been little demand for this friendly medicine.

Mentholized Arcine is new in this market, it is possible that your druggist has not supplied himself but he can get it for you from his jobber, who has a large supply.

Wager of $500 Offered on Result, Following Saturday's Game.

VISITORS ARE VICTORIOUS

So pleased was the management of the Connellsville Independents with the ball game put up by Whitney Saturday at Fayette Field that the team has been challenged to a series of five games for a side wager of $500

The following letter was sent John Dulick, manager of the Whitney team by Duke Barry

"Regarding our conversation of Saturday last, in reference to a return ball game between the Whitney team and the Connellsville Independents when we apparently could not reach a definite understanding I beg to submit the following offer

"The Connellsville Independents hereby challenge your team to a series of five contests for a side wager of $500 Should you accept this offer I am at your service at any time to meet and sign the contract post the money and arrange details of the games

INDEPENDENTS LOSE GAME IN FINAL ROUND

The Connellsville Independents lost to Whitney Saturday afternoon at Fayette Field in what followers of baseball here say was one of the best games of the season 3 2 Not until the ninth inning did the reverse come to the locals

Whitney drew first blood in the opening round putting one runner across Barlock landed on the first ball pitched Buck followed with a sacrifice and Dulick brought Barlock home with a single

In the third inning Connellsville tied the score Labiak singled Cover sacrificed him to second and Stokes the pitcher brought Labiak across with a double Costello and Townsend were unable to advance the twirler however

The Independents added another run in the seventh Honsberger led off with a clean two-bagger Ping Townsend acting as team captain ordered resort to the bunting game It worked and Honsberger went to third Jones also bunted and Honsy scored Labiak laid down a bunt and got to first the visitors being up in the air Cover tried the trick but didn't get away with it Stokes tried hard for another two-bagger but went out to Buck

In the ninth Good hit one that Labiak could not handle and it went for a single Smith flied out to Cover Gayety's smash went through Honsberger's legs Rosko singled sending Good home with the winning run
